DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1-5, 8, 11, and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. Claim 1 recites the following limitation "a controller which supplies said intermediate correlation signal outputted from the L-chip accumulator to said M memories and to said M input terminals of said adder..." However, after reviewing the drawings and the specification, particularly Fig. 1 and pg. 10, lines 8-12, it is the understanding of the examiner that the multipliers, not the controller, supply the intermediate correlation signal output from the L-chip accumulator to the input terminals of the adder.
3. Claims 6, 9, 12, and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. Claim 6 recites the limitation "wherein said second data, and said first data which have been stored in said first memory, are supplied to said adder in a second period when said second data are written to said second memory...” However, after reviewing the drawings and the specification, particularly Fig. 1 and pg. 11, line 11-pg. 12, line 4, it is the understanding of the examiner that the first and second data are supplied to a set of multipliers, not the adder, during a second period (cycle). It is the multiplier which supplies the signals to the adder.

4. Claims 7, 10, 13, and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. Claim 7 recites the limitation “a controller which supplies to said adder said first correlation signals...” However, after reviewing the drawings and the specification, particularly Fig. 1 and pg. 10, lines 8-12, it is the understanding of the examiner that the multipliers, not the controller, supply the intermediate correlation signal output from the L-chip accumulator to the input terminals of the adder.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 17 and 18 are allowable over prior art because related references do not disclose an L-chip accumulator for generating an intermediate correlation signal from samples created by an oversampling rate which is N-fold of chip rate and a controller for supplying correlation signals to the adder when the correlation signals are supplied to the memory.
